OFFICE HOURS
I can arrange face to face meetings M-TH on the Key West campus with 24 hour advance notice. I can arrange Skype, Chat or phone meetings with 24 hour advance notice.

COURSE DESCRIPTION
An introductory course that offers a critical evaluation of the major theories of moral value. The major emphasis of the course is the application of theory to contemporary ethical problems. Includes a 6,000 word writing requirement.

Gordon Rule Writing Requirement (if applicable):
This course satisfies the Gordon Rule writing requirement. A grade of “C” or higher must be attained. (would be omitted in non-Gordon rule courses)
COURSE OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of the course, the student will be able to demonstrate knowledge—by successfully answering questions on an objective examination—of the following topics:

1. Integration of Ideas – Integrate new ethical ideas into real world situations by analyzing and applying them to personally relevant case studies.
2. Communication – Further develop individual styles of thinking, speaking and writing to demonstrate critical analysis and effectively communicate original ideas in written discourse.
4. Independent Learning – Locate and evaluate primary and secondary sources and incorporate the relevant information into a research paper documented internally and bibliographically. Identify and share new learning resources for further study.
5. Empathy – Approach new and controversial ideas with the principal of philosophical charity, assuming the intelligence and open minded stance of other thinkers while maintaining a critical and analytical mindset.

REQUIRED MATERIALS:

There is no required textbook for this class.
All required reading will be posted in D2L
PROPOSED COURSE SCHEDULE

Exam Policy
Each exam will be given online. Makeup exams may be offered to students with emergencies, but only if they can provide acceptable documentation of the emergency (e.g., hospital admits slip, etc.). The instructor reserves the right to change the format of any makeup exams (e.g., to essay questions). The final exam cannot be made up for any reason.

Reading Assignments and Homework
All readings will be posted to D2L. The content link in D2L is the textbook for this class. You must read that content link before you can access any assignments. Homework and writing assignments will be posted to D2L.

What you will learn to do in this class.
1) Determine your own ethical point of view and defend it.
2) Differentiate your point of view from another philosopher’s point of view.
3) Evaluate different points of view using proof, arguments and logic.
4) Apply ethics to real world events
5) Write a paper that does all those things clearly and persuasively.

Online learning skills you will need to master in the first week
1) Using the discussion board, dropbox and checking your grades in D2L.
2) Reading your college email account.
3) Communicating clearly by email – always give your name, the name of the class and the name of the assignment you are talking about if you want me to help. You must use your FKCC email address. The college email system does not always deliver email from addresses outside of FKCC so if you want to guarantee delivery use your FKCC.edu address.
4) Contacting tech support. @ D2LHelp@fkcc.edu or by phone at (305) 809-3177.

What you need to do to earn an A this class
1) Read the content link at the beginning of each week.
2) Read or watch the content posted there.
3) Check the discussion board and post by Wednesday midnight.
4) Check back to the discussion board and respond by Sunday midnight.
5) Post your dropbox assignments by Sunday midnight.
6) Keep track of dates and deadlines – use an online calendar, email yourself reminders, do whatever you need to avoid last minute panics. I will respond ASAP, but if you have waited until 11:30pm the evening the assignment is due, I will not be able to fix any technical glitches you run into. Plan ahead and have back up.

You are allowed only one make up due to technical difficulties.

Final Paper Project
We will be working on one paper week by week throughout the semester. Each week you will complete one essay. You have one week to revise that essay for more credit and add the next essay to your final paper project. Each week you will turn in your whole paper with your revisions and your new essay and by the end of the semester you’ll have a college level research paper ready to turn in.
Applied Ethics Project
During this class you will be working on an ethical project from your own life. Each week we will use the discussion board in D2L to work through a different stage of the ethical decision making process. You will then write up an overview and evaluation of your Applied Ethics project for your final grade.

Discussion Posts
Discussion posts count as your attendance and must be submitted on time in order for me to count you as present for class that week. I cannot give credit for late discussion posts or late quizzes.

Class Academic Honesty Policy
This is an Ethics class – so if you cheat in Ethics class you obviously haven’t mastered the class content and you will fail this class.
If you cheat once – you fail that assignment.
If you cheat twice – you fail this class.
Just to be clear – here is how I define cheating.

1) Copying and pasting anything into your essays. D2L highlights each sentence that you copy, and your essays are supposed to be your opinions, experience and ideas not a mish mash of other philosophers. I don’t want quotes. I want to hear what you think. So keep your fingers away from Ctrl-C.

2) Using other people’s answers on quizzes or tests. We will be doing a lot of group collaboration in this class – but tests and quizzes are for you to get feedback on what is sticking in your head. Quizzes are not worth many points, so don’t sweat them and don’t bother with cheating. Just use them as personal feedback. If you bomb a quiz and you can convince me that you studied for that quiz I would rather have you retake the quiz than to cheat.

3) Using other people’s writing, or having someone write for you. I would much rather have you submit simple sentences than fancy writing that you do not really understand. This is not an English course or a Creative Writing course. It is about thinking clearly about ideas. If English is not your first language please talk to me at the beginning of the class and we can figure out a strategy for you to succeed. If you can convince me that you understand the ideas then you will pass this class. If you turn in fancy writing that is not your own, you will not learn anything and you will not pass this class.

FKCC College policies

Communications: The online format of this class puts a premium on communications. The prime responsibility for timely communications rests with you - the student. This course will utilize the following methods:

DISCUSSION FORUMS: Most weeks under the discussion tab, there will be a question to which the students are to post a response during the week. The student must click on the “respond” button immediately after the question. The student is to make appropriate comments; for maximum credit the student is to respond to at least one other student’s response that week. The student should also check to see who has responded to their comments and respond to this person if it is appropriate to do so. These responses are also to be thought revealing – they are more than “I agree” or “I disagree.” The student is expected to provide quality insight citing and documenting references, in order to demonstrate an understanding of the weekly topic and provide original thought in the posts. Cutting and pasting from the text, websites, or providing a response with limited substance will receive a significantly reduced grade. As with all activities in this class, quality counts and the postings need to add value to the discussion.

In addition, most questions about class policies and subject matter should be posted in the discussion forum to allow the entire class to benefit from the question and the answer. There will often be important information published to the class via the Announcements section, such as changes in due dates, exam information, etc. The student is responsible for all information published here.
Occasionally, time-sensitive announcements will be posted in the Announcements section. The student should log on to D2L 3-4 times each week to check for time-sensitive messages. Before the student posts a question, look through the Discussion Board. That same question may have already been asked and answered.

EMAIL: The email utility within D2L should not be used for personal items that are not appropriate to share with the entire class. This e-mail uses the student’s FKCC e-mail account.

What can the student expect from your instructor?
The instructor will log into D2L and check for messages at least once per day, including weekends and holidays. If the student has an urgent message for the instructor, do not post the same message both on a Discussion Forum and in an email. Doing both will waste the students time and will not result in the instructor getting the message any faster. If the instructor expects to be out of contact for more than a couple of days, they will inform the class via the Announcement section...

Important Note: If the instructor has not responded to a student email or voicemail message by the end of the day after the student left the message, the student should assume that the instructor did not receive it and leave another message.

Logging Off From D2L
In order to better serve our faculty and students, all D2L users should click the “Logout “link when completing online course work. By logging off instead of just closing the internet browser window, D2L server space is freed and system performance is optimized. In addition, logging off will more accurately record each student’s time logged into the online course?

Class Participation
Class participation is a combination of discussions and online assignments. The online discussion component is defined as posting a minimum number of substantial, separate, and distinct messages to the various Discussion Forums. These discussion board messages must be posted before the deadlines in the Course Calendar to count toward the student’s participation grade.

For the purposes of this class, a substantial online posting must:
1. Provide a good explanation of a concept or concepts related to the material discussed in the forum, or give a good example of how a concept can be applied, or provide an insightful response to a previous post.
2. Be factually correct. The post should help your classmates, and yourself, learn the material.
3. Have acceptable spelling and grammar. Although this is not a writing class, this is College. Students should get into the habit of writing complete sentences that are grammatically correct. Take advantage of the spell check feature in D2L.
4. Do your own work. Do not plagiarize from any source (internet, textbook, etc) as the body of your post. Study the concept, and then express it in the student’s own words. Make certain to cite and document references.

Other key points:
1. Only messages that meet all of the requirements of a substantial post listed above will earn full credit for participation.
2. It is acceptable (and encouraged!) for more than one student to respond to the same message. The best way to be sure you understand a topic is to try to explain it to someone else.
3. Please use the discussion forums to ask all of the questions you have about the class material. The instructor wants students to ask a lot of questions, and these questions will contribute to the class participation grade.

4. Off-topic messages will not count toward the participation grade.

5. If the final average is on the borderline between two letter grades, active participation (posting several messages to each forum, on average) will work to the student’s advantage as the instructor decides which of the two letter grades the student has earned.

6. Messages must have content that contributes to the discussion. Messages that contain a few words and merely say “I agree with you” or something similar will not earn any credit.

7. These participation points are the easiest part of the grade to earn, and also the easiest to forget to do. Don't forget!

8. Copying and pasting from any source, even if the student cites the source, is not acceptable. The should study the source document and paraphrase what they learned when typing a message.

To earn 100% on the discussion portion of the class participation grade, the student must do the following by the dates published in the Course Calendar:

1. Post an introductory message to the class in the Introductions forum.

2. Post one substantial message in each discussion forum at any time during the week in which that forum is scheduled. (If two forums are scheduled during the same week, then one message must be posted in each forum.)

3. Some extra credit will be given for substantial messages that are posted no later than Wednesday of the week they are due. This is to encourage students to post early in the week, which will help generate a better class discussion within each forum.

4. If no substantial messages are posted on time in a forum, it will not be possible to earn 100% for that forum. A small number of messages that are not substantial but do say more than “I agree” or “Good Post!” and are more than 1 or 2 sentences in length will earn some part credit, but not very much.

Office of student disabilities
